CLOSER LOOK: First pick; Voided claim in latest and that sent him to the shelf for 1.5 months but were it not for THAT, then this guy might just have these over a barrel; overlook the 3-back Beyer earned over wet ground in a 3-horse field (when the others are kind enough to go eye-to-eye early then it doesn't matter how fast you're going when you pass them); FIVE-horse fields may indeed have had a hand in those latest figures but runner does have a lot of margin for error IF he returns at same level of ability; this one atop exacta hedge bets if you're inclined to hunt for a better price.

Top pair one-two all the way in the 7/18 affair that came with a big figure affixed; gelding has feasted on 5-horse fields all season and he can make for a perfect ending with just a single scratch from this contest; 2nd start off the claim for Lucarel li and barn's main rider still stays; note 5 weeks away prior to latest; you'd be backing him off of ONE lonely speed figure there...

Fourth pick; This is another whose season has been padded by 5-horse fields - not to mention he's a 9yo who hasn't won in 2 years; up in class now because you go anywhere you can get in on closing weekend; as stated above, the big figure for West Coast B ull came in a 5-horse field in which the top pair ran one-two always - no coincidence that it was top recent Beyer in this corner as well; runner is good at racing fairly evenly in small fields that make him seem more competitive than may be the case the se days; clearly another chance for the tri and super.

Third pick; Vet scratch 5 weeks ago and now out of action for nearly 2 months; returns for solid barn but 4th is the best he's ever done when fresh; seems a reasonable threat figure-wise and runner is in good hands; has one win in 15 months now.

Switched to dirt and bombed at Del Mar and then bombed upon arrival locally; did pick up his feet a bit and get nearer to competitive with latest and they were going really fast in front of him with the winner cruising on a daylight lead the whole way; p probably no hope from the back in that one although it would have been nice to see a better effort; you just wonder if he can step forward with a more fair early tempo and find a way to participate to some further degree.

Second pick; Makes 2nd start off the claim and gets a bit of class relief this time; he may well be the fastest one in here and runner does NOT need the early lead for success; wide draw plays right into his hand and this one has every chance for 4th win at the stand. -George Cottrell

CLOSER LOOK: Weeeeeeell she's only three, so there IS improvement potential both today and for the next many months; been stuck on 5 and stuck AT $5K for a short while and now must cope with the inside draw too; last trifecta finish... was in a 3-horse field; run ner-up on 1/24 won a match race at Tillamook earlier this month (of the sort which SOMEbody had to win...); can't find a reason, can you???

Fourth pick; She has been stuck on 4 about as long as the one next door has been stuck on 5 but this IS another sophomore who continues to have improvement potential; somewhere in her is some tactical speed, too, and that that is a useful commodity a round these parts; reasonable runner-up effort at this level back in June and made the superfecta every time out this year.

Second pick; Scored maiden win in 16th start (and 18 before Sept. of 3yo season is quite an accomplishment in 2026); has speed and improvement potential AND, now a decent (and recent) sprint try vs. winners; there just may be more in the tank and this would be a great spot to put it on display.

Well, she won a race... in 2022... but there IS early speed in this corner and this one could be fit and still relatively fresh compared to some of the others; other speed in latest held on to be 2nd and then won next out with a Beyer boost of 12 points ; needed to get clear early for best effort to date in 2026 and it appears she has lost a step from 2025 form; needs some luck.

Well, she won first out...; in addition, this one is also just a 3yo with at least SOME remaining upside potential; have to consider the giant possibility that she improves a good deal today and you still can't even tell; not toooooo much early foot in th is corner and a long day ahead.

CLOSER LOOK:

Sire is not like a lot of stallions in that he didn't net 2nd career win until his 25th start; his debuting offspring are 0-0-2 / 34 to date while dam was 2-for-10 on the track, winning routes on turf and on synthetic; only winning sibling was 3-for-30 on the track good for $194K but was a neck and two noses from being 0-for-30; barn 3-for-last-28 with firsters and the inside draw won't likely help; would be a mild shock, all things considered.

Third pick; Hey, this is a good name (unless he steals away on a clear early lead and beats you); runner was bumped and forced out at the start to lose a length in latest and then probably had minimal hope to catch loose speed in a 5-horse field; now back at same level, ideally with more pace to chase, but nothing is guaranteed; shouldn't take much to beat most of these but there is a formidable foe entered; can go a lot better for barn that has won with 4 of past 13 2nd-time starters AT EMD.

Other returnees from the 7/25 affair saw their Beyer Speed Figures go down by 9 and 5 points next time out but that does not include the top pair who ran one-two all the way; beat one foe each time at EmD and needs to do something better if she hopes to matter to the mutuels; final furlong run in :26.21 last out and she didn't even make up ground on that.

First pick; Would seem to have the experienced foes over a barrel in here given the strong figure edge; like the early foot in this corner and the wide draw matches the task at hand; she knows the level well and has given good account of herself each time e out this season; steady improvement is noted as well;; will take some beating.

CLOSER LOOK: This old gal is 5-for-11 at GrP and 3-for-3 at GPr - outside of those she has 4 wins from 36 chances, the 2nd of which was the Winnipeg Futurity of 2020; both of the others were in 2022; 0-for-Emerald in 2023 and she isn't getting any younger; recent ret urn didn't bring any glory and she still isn't in the claiming ranks where success would be more attainable; not for the faint of heart.

Third pick; Not so much early foot in this corner and she has just been making her way during the season that ends tomorrow; possibly a touch more fit off the recent route but now leaves the claiming ranks for (anything available on the final weekend); s should be able to land a spot most likely in the lower half of the superfecta.

Second pick; Brings decent speed and steps away from the claiming ranks for this, a race for non-winners since the season began here; she'd have to be on her toes to take the measure of these but can certainly be in the firing line for much of the trip; there isn't THAT much opposing speed but the other is outside - wouldn't be unheard of that they might run one-two all the way if the pace is suitable; just a tough challenging to take on the win end (in a race filled with similar entities).

Fourth pick; Doesn't it seem odd that this miss is racing for non-winners-of-the-meet on closing day? (her first 5 fast-track sprints at EmD, in 2023, saw her win 4 and miss by a nose in the other and she won here in 2024 and 2025 as well); now 0-for-6 g oing long, but did miss by 3/4 of a length once, so doubt we can fully excuse last pair for distance); new outfit has yet to solve her.

First pick; Offered up 4 reasonable efforts this season to date and we're guessing the latest figure was a function of the moderate(-for-Emerald) early tempo; decent tactical speed, probably doesn't want the early lead, and sporting competitive figures a nd a post toward the outside; seems more probable than most.

The 5/17 return was promising and she's been in the doldrums ever since then; this makes for a noteworthy class hike even though they're all non-winners-of-the-season and she'd need to leap out of her established recent norm just to have a shot in the st retch; outsider.

Only main track win was in an off-the-turf and onto mud situation in Texas and since arriving here she has seen her figures plunge steadily downward; note the muddy surface of 6/6 and that it represents her career-best Beyer on the main track; it isn't e asy to miss the superfecta here in 4 consecutive starts; iffy. -George Cottrell

CLOSER LOOK: Exits a win and now leaps up in class taking whatever she can get on closing weekend; she's consistent at a level that won't begin to threaten the favorites in here but she does like to find the exotics so best to sprinkle her number around the lower run gs.

Second pick; Had been feasting on small fields before changing hands a couple of months ago and coming out flat in first try for new outfit; barn 3-for-last-6 on DIRT in 2nd-off-claim situations; that last one was a bit of an odd contest as they went 4 furlongs in :43.70 in a 4-horse field – MAYbe the best of'em just asserted themselves in major fashion from the bell and overwhelmed this miss in the process; she's the first to return from the 8/16 opener and Krigger sticks with today; latest probably do esn't tully represent where this one is at present.

Has only a 1000-yard win at Los Al since early May of 2025 and that 5/9 group are a combined 1-for-20 since that point; this one has mostly struggled in 2026 and she is up against it once again today.

The field assembled to result in her only win of 2026 is a combined 1-for-14 since; now this one is back on closing weekend after 6 weeks away to meet open company after being thumped by N3L types for the same price in latest; going to need a significant step forward to even begin to threaten for top honors.

First pick; Has booming speed all of a sudden along with a 9-for-21 career mark; ran the SECOND quarter mile in :21.94 last time out; shouldn't take too long to leave these behind and, as a kicker, she doesn't need the early lead for success; can see Mis s Union being within earshot after things get settled in the early going but you'd probably rather be backing a runner as sharp as this than the alternatives.

Third pick; She'd been here since the end of May and finally got to the races 3 months later; finished well behind the miss next door in latest but does have a right to go better with a local prep under foot; big figures for this one were earned over 5 f urlongs and they may not equate to something similar at a longer trip on a different strip; mare does win her share and she brings a nice running style to the table for this; seems destined for a prominent minor share.

Best speed figures in this corner coincided with tiny fields and that hints that pace played a major role in those situations; not sure you can really bank on this one reaching the 60 Beyer plateau under routine circumstances and others here have been in the 70's of late; the win 2 months ago was against non-winners-of-3 lifetime and she'll find these to be tougher. -George Cottrell

First pick; Speedster has a solid local record but there is the small matter of his having been a VET SCRATCH here a couple of weeks back; earlier vet scratching was followed by a dull finish over a wet track when he had to go head-to-head vs. the rompin g winner from the inside; guessing that 6/5 finish was more a function of the trip than a product of the vet scratch; 6 for last 7 in the exacta AT EmD over past 54 weeks.

Fourth pick; He does NOT need the early lead for success, and he drew outside what is probably the best speed here, so things should set up quite nicely for gelding with 4 wins at the stand; he isn't especially imposing figure-wise and he lands in a spot that will test his ability while allowing that he not race for a claiming tag; if being sharp and loving the local layout means anything then he'll be right there come crunch time.

His form has gone south but he does know the level quite well but will have to find a way to top faster foes here; best chance for this one happens if runners inside and out end up in a pace duel that wears them and others out; MAYbe he doesn't need to s it as near to the early tempo as has been the recent case and that may leave him with something left IF only they would come back to him.

Third pick; This one has known a productive season and has at times earned figures that would have him presumably winning this contest; found this level 2 months ago and it seemed a great fit merely because he was eligible; missed 7 weeks after the flat finish as the heavy chalk so maybe don't read too much into it; we've been sticking with the premise that his 7/3 event had an inflated speed figure so that leaves one stand-out number earned after a slow pace in a 5-horse field; have feeling that he's in pretty tough.

CLOSER LOOK: Steady efforts in both prior starts and now returns after 1.5 months away after having been scratched by the Stewards on 8/16; rail draw probably won't help her cause but there is lots of early speed in here so maybe she wisely lets them go and then read ies to circle as many as she can later; faces uphill battle but not really out of the question.

Second pick; The 3-4 finishers on 8/16 returned to be 3-1 respectively in the same race here on 8/30; the 8/2 runner-up had a troubled trip next out and lands right next door today; she drew the short straw and had to duel with main rival from the INside in latest and now goes just to her OUTside, which may help a bit; don't know if others entered here are fast enough to make a pace difference but even a little pace help might open the door for this one to improve and threaten in the end.

Drew inside, sluggish start, tight quarters, steadied, checked sharply into the stretch last out; she was due for some 2nd-out improvement but must still make up 6-plus lengths on the miss next door only to then worry about the favorite.

The 3rd finisher in latest returned to slash her Beyer by 16 points and still get runner-up honors in a maiden claiming affair last week; she veered in at the start and then lugged in sharply early in the stretch run of latest; could easily go better now with a race under foot and while drawn outside of all the traffic; needs a big move forward to matter when it counts. -George Cottrell

CLOSER LOOK: Second pick; Intramural affair adds only a 3yo moving in with elders in the way of entities who don't know the script in this stakes division; this one gave pretty good account of herself when topping a trio of these after being prominent all the way in latest; close 5th from the back in this event a year ago and then went on to claim honors as Washington State Champion Turf Horse for 2025; still working smartly as she always has (damsire Nationhood once worked 4 furs. at Emd in :44.20); making inroads toward 2-turn prowess and with it a useful new dimension.

She was a vet scratch from the Emerald Distaff and now has 7 weeks between starts with her latest route try more than 11 months back; 4yo certainly did get a strong set of interim works under her girth during the time away and it commenced well before the scheduled start on 8/16; no tote action to date vs. this kind but she IS a 2-time stakes winner at this trip; likely in it for more scraps.

First pick; It does tend to be entertaining to watch this gal go long as everybody knows it could be a feast-or-famine endeavor; she is 3-for-5 around 2 turns and the last foe to beat her is in here; nothing at all going wrong in the 2026 campaign and sh e's lightly raced with presumably plenty left in the tank; attempting to go through the early stages of a suical and she only comes back once in a while...

Last time she pierced the trifecta was in 2024 but she lost in this event a year ago by just 3 lengths vs. some of the same headliners; had 2 preps now but one was way back in June and only the more recent one was going long; could go a little better wit h that under foot but probably won't change the outcome.

Fourth pick; This is the only new shooter to the older filly & mare stakes ranks here and she has proven she can go long and did finally win a race in the process; this was one of few to make headway from very far back on 8/16 but she'll still need to go some to take the measure of. OLDER foes; probably gunning for a slice like so many of the rest.

Pretty fair to say that Aloha Breeze long ago settled the score with this gal but give her credit as the last runner to beat Aloha Breeze on the square; that after main foe had all the best of it with a clear early lead (as usual); unfortunately, the las t pair haven't been so kind to this one and she doesn't exactly seem to be at concert pitch for this last-weekend attempt at achieving the improbable yet again; the tote will be intriguing to those who can somehow look past latest dud performances.

Third pick; Showed lots of ability early in her career but hasn't really been a match for the favorite; conservative style may net still another solid trifecta slice but this one won't likely control her own fate in here but seems very probable to figure in the superfecta at the very least; regular rider still with her. -George Cottrell

Those last 2 (and probably 3) speed figures were inflated by pace factors but he IS used to running hooked while he managed a pair of prior wins over a mile and probably won't struggle at today's trip; move from claiming company to stakes company does not go unnoticed nor does the fact that he has never won from more than a head off the lead at any call.

Even effort in the 'Mile in a spot where only venerable Slew's Tiz Whiz made any serious late headway; decent try in this event a year ago but if the pace boosted his end result in the 'Mile then he's probably going to be up against it in this spot; woul d look for this one to be over-bet today.

A year ago he was on the verge of a romping win in the BC Derby and all was right with the world; since switching venues this gelding hasn't really found high gear and now finds himself 0-for-3 vs. Slew's Tiz Whiz despite small fields that tend to favor those with more early foot; could step forward after having been able to stretch out in latest but he faces a long, uphill climb at this point.

Makes switch to OLDER foes after wrapping up divisional honors 3 weeks ago; gonna need improvement to threaten these; barn pulls off a rarity by entering 3 runners in consecutive stakes and drawing the outside 3 posts in both cases; the speedster from the same outfit just might help the cause for this guy and Slew's Tiz Whiz; at any rate this one will have to improve a good deal to win this one.

First pick; Rider sticks with runner who just ran 3rd in the 'Mile for the third time in the past 4 years; the pace pictures were much better for this one in his earlier days and at times lately he has been lucky to have anything at all to chase; outside runner from same barn assures some kind of tempo up front and that can only help this guy's cause; 'Whiz is 2-for-3 in this particular event, having lost by a neck to Papa's Golden Boy in 2022; still gunning for first stakes win of the year in 2026 after having won the 4 prior runnings of the Governor's Stakes before the 7/19 runner-up finish; needs to wake the echoes.

Third pick; Latest was a 5-horse field over which he just cruised once able to get a clear early lead; wasn't able to do same vs. 4 foes going a mile 2-back and is so far 0-for-4 career-wise when going long; he does assure a solid tempo for a pair of stablemates to chase and sometimes speed is all you need around here; perhaps best for the top of a light exacta hedge bet. -George Cottrell

| Surprised at first asking and is by a sire who was a grade I winner going long and from a dam who won via DQ in a Gr. III stakes going 9 furlongs on turf; just the lone start under foot and with it comes much more upside than is known to more experienced foes in here; moves off the fence but still could be the inside speed, though without too many others who are Obviously interested in contesting the early pace; not a bad move to invest in that 2nd-out improvement by a gelding bred to handle the trip. |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |                          |  |                                                             |  |

| Behold the only stakes winner in this field and remind yourself that the one who toe-roped this guy first out is thus far a wonder horse of the 5-for-5 variety (6/28 no longer even his greatest winning margin); blinkers off today after a rude reception f rom the locals and now he'll have to go 2 turns for the first time; barn 4-for-44 here over 5 years but 2-for-last-6 in 2026; speed figures yet to reach 40 and that is going to make for a major challenge when facing a few of the finer prospects in this s pot; half-sib Janey has run well here going a mile in 2026 but the rest of the female family is a bit shaky going longer. |                                                                                                     |                                                                                                                                                                                                  |  |    |      |    |                              |                              |                              |                               |              |              |                          |                                                            |                                                                                                  |                           |  |

| Well, he has come to life a bit here, and maybe this makes for a chance to try him going long just to see if he's still focused on the task in the end; going from 5 furlongs to 8.5-plus is a challenge in itself but this is maidens to stakes foes too; gel did did both to work a mile a couple of weeks ago. |                                                  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |                                                                                 |                                                         |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |                                                         |                          |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |                        |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |

Third pick; Sire lost the KY Derby by 3/4 of a length as the favorite and then romped in the 2022 Travers over 10 furlongs; mom went to post just 3 times but does have a lot of distance pedigree to her; pair of strong and subtle efforts behind this guy n ow and his connections basically own this race; might be fun to watch the same silks on 3 consecutive riders in the gate; game of musical riders may tell a story if you can follow it.

Second pick; Sire was a Gr. II winner on dirt going long and a Gr. I winner on turf going long; mom didn't do much running in 3 starts but 2nd dam is by Galileo and from a Darshaan mare so distance must be in there somewhere; colt knows the company and a dds blinkers today while retaining Castellanos, who prrrrrrrOBably had a choice between at least 2 of barn's runners; wonder if this one will be rather handy today and land a spot just behind the speed with a chance to make first run.

Fourth pick; Regular rider opted elsewhere and this one can be the outside speed in a spot where not THAT many of'em will likely be out there; topped the runner next door in latest and this one is by a sire who took the Gr. II Rebel by 6 at 8.5 furlongs and later shaded 1:20 for 7 panels; mom won a pair of local routes after setting the pace in this very event in 2017; new rider connected with 5 of past 26 with noteworthy success on some speed types; prominent at least for quite a while. -George Cottrell
