CLOSER LOOK: Was a vet scratch on May 17th from an 8k claimer across town. Bobbled in his second stride last out, recovered well enough to chase a loose winner along the inside, saved ground on the turn, was in range into the lane and mildly gained to the wire. Steps up in class off that improved effort and sheds seven pounds on the rider change. Plenty of speed signed on to work a tracking inside trip and should come running late.

Was bumped shortly after the start last out, cost him his best chance to contest the pace, had to take up exiting the chute and dropped to the rail, advanced ok through the turn and kept on to lose a photo for second to What A Relief. Was claimed out of that outing and is capable of showing speed to lay close in this group. Best races fit very well with these.

Was ridden along to try and contest the pace last out, tracked the leader three wide into the turn, put to urging into the lane and gamely dug in to win a head bob for third. Is in sharp form, so the step up in class is not too much of a concern and race shape favors him. Think he is a cut below to consider on the win end, but is an underneath use.

Last seen nearly a year ago over this surface last out, came away cleanly, ridden along early to try and be close, tracked a long shot leader three wide, advanced well on the turn, ranged up into the lane, was unable to reel in that longshot leader but k ept on to be a clear second. Has a spaced out work pattern, but does have a couple quick works. Barn is capable off these layoffs and tumbles in class.

Had a relatively good enough trip last out, chased a loose leader along the inside and was soundly outfinished by Bet The Om and next out winner Naftis. Gets a weight break on the drop in class. Main issue for him is he takes a couple jumps early to get going and the inside posts have been to his detriment and the post switch to an outer post should help his chances.

Was a vet scratch on May 17th from an allowance event. Was hustled to contest the pace last out, was unable to chase a speeding off leader, was a clear second into the turn, took command when the leader tired, challenged with a sixteenth to go, drifted out, but dug in to hold off a late bid. Takes on a much tougher group filled with class droppers. Prefer to watch one at this level.

Was moving in the gate, came away a bit slow, lost her path and finished evenly against a much better group. Freshened up again off that effort and has a turn and work since. Barn is doing well and this runner has shown strong runs at times. Does draw a tricky post, but best races fit.

Came away midpack, accelerated to get near the lead, was in the mix until being outkicked in the final sixteenth. Both wins have come going much shorter, but has run well at this distance and longer. Looks to off some upside still with her best clocking being her latest effort. Has run really well under this rider and spotted well tonight. One to consider

- Came away cleanly, quickly took command, was confidently handled early, asked right handed late and was outfinished for the win. That was a solid try off a voided claim, but has been on the bench since. Does have two turn and works since and is probably better suited at this distance. Mixed feelings

- Drew the rail going shorter, came away well enough and could not keep up with the top finishers. Is 1 for 6 at the distance and lone win was in a slower clocking. Offers gate speed and should be prominent early, but think at least one of these outfinis her. Strictly and underneath use for me.

Removed the blinkers when facing Fyrestorm last out, was fractious in the gate, broke in from the rail draw, kept to steady urging and was outkicked. Has run well fresh and has three turn and works since his last start. Draws comfortably and most likely will be loaded last, which will be to this high strung runner s benefit. -George Duarte

CLOSER LOOK: Made his sophomore debut with new connections last out, came away midpack, accelerated ok and kept on to the wire to finish second best to the longest shot on the board. Winner came back to run third and the fifth place finisher came back to win and two others have run second. Has plenty of upside and should be fitter second time off the layoff. One to consider.

Broke in, was a bit head high when being corrected, dueled early, kept to steady urging and came up second best into a 9.65 final eighth. The winner previously ran fifth in the Los Alamitos Oaks and the third place finisher came back to win an allowance race. Barn has been doing very well and draws in between two slower breakers.

-Broke thru the gate and was a gate scratch last week. Was a vet scratch from an allowance race on May 2nd. Bobbled and bumped out at the start last out, was in range midway and weakened under steady urging. Returns quickly so not much of a concern. Dra ws well enough and is capable of quick starts and is much better suited at this distance.

Was last seen in a trial last year, came away cleanly, was in range approaching the gap and steadily faded in the final half of the race. Worked alone on May 16th, bobbled leaving the gate, was lightly ridden along and finished well in a solid drill. Has run well fresh and is probably better suited at this shorter distances. Barn is capable off the layoff as well. Main concern is drawing in between two quick breakers.

- Was a gate scratch on January 18th from an allowance race. Drew the rail when last seen, brushed with rival leaving the gate, drifted out early and was outfinished under hand urging. Worked along on May 16th, came away well, was lightly ridden along, maintained a very straight path and went well to the wire. Adds lasix for sophomore debut, figures to improve, but her clockings thus far are a bit below the top contenders.

Gets a positive post switch for this start and did beat a next out winner in her maiden win, but that was in a trouble filled event. Well bred runner figures to still offer some upside, but prefer others in this field with proven form

- Was a bit antsy in the gate, kept to steady urging and was outfinished into a 9.66 final eighth. Lacks the winning habit, but is very consistent with eight on the board finishes. Is 6 for 6 in the money at this distance and draws very well in this contentious group. May not be the most likely winner, but is the most likely to hit the board. -George Duarte

CLOSER LOOK: Drew this post across town last out, came away well enough, briefly paused when being crossed early, recovered well to contest the pace three wide under own power, roused to challenge the favorite into the lane, was unable to get by that runner and was passed by a couple runners in the final sixteenth. Takes on plenty of speed in this race and has not shown the ability to pass thus far. Takes on class droppers and draws a trick post.

Came away well last out, quickly took command under confident handling, which allowed runner to catch up and pass her, angled off the rail on the turn, advanced three wide, responded to urging heading into the lane and kept on gamely to be second best. L lightly made runner should be more aggressively handled to take the lead against a field of runners making their local debut and offers upside. One to consider.

- Ships in off a turf race last out, showed good speed to contest the pace early, was in hand inside of Glassheart, took the lead on the turn under own power, roused to stay in lead into the lane, overtaken approaching the final sixteenth and tired. She has plenty of local works in the past, so the surface will not be new to her. Takes on mainly younger runners and draws well enough. Mare was 0 for 4 and ran third in a turf race on debut; this is her first foal. Sire never competed on the dirt, progeny is 8 for 12 dirt sprinting and thus far is 0 for 12 on debut with older runners. Has a long work pattern and has a solid gate work in the mix. Barn is more than capable on debut, but is taking on a few class droppers in what normally would be a soft spot. One to consider.

- Drew the rail in second start last out in Arizona, broke in at the start, accelerated well to clear early, mildly scrubbed along on the turn, entered the lane in the lead, responded to urging and was run down by an inside rallying rival late. Put in a protected spot for local debut, but did earn a solid figure against a winner that was dropping from a 20k claimer. Mixed feelings as barn tends to give them a local start.

Came away ok last out, was mildly asked to try and stay close, settled for a stalking inside trip, mildly asked into the lane, asked a couple times in the lane and fail to rally. Has yet to run a clocking fast enough to consider in this group filled with runners that offer more upside.

Drew the rail last out, came away well, comfortably showed speed to lead, headed late on the turn, kept on while being no match and finished a well clear second. The winner came back to run fifth against winners and the third place finisher disappointed as the favorite when running third in a 5k maiden claimer. Consistent runner figures to be prominent early, but is more of an underneath candidate.

Mare was 1 for 9 and ran strictly on the turf. Lone sibling ran ninth on debut and is 1 for 4 overall and has only run on the dirt. Sire won the Los Alamitos Futurity and ran fifth in the Kentucky Derby. Progeny is 9 for 144 on debut overall thus far and 3 for 44 on debut with older runners. Has nothing in the work pattern to give me confidence this one is ready to fire on debut and prefer to watch one. -George Duarte

CLOSER LOOK: - Came away cleanly, kept to steady urging and was part of a blanket finish for fourth. Winner came back to win a stakes race. Removes the blinkers tonight and barn has had success in the past with that move, primarily with fillies and mares. Worked with out blinkers on May 16th, came away well and mildly asked late in a sharp drill. Has a win at the distance and faces mainly three year olds in this group. Much to like.

Faced Shine Elynn when last seen, came away cleanly, bumped on hind end early and narrowly missed out on second while under a hand ride. Is the lone runner with two wins at the distance, but they came in slow clockings, one of them over Ultra Shiny. Work ed a couple weeks ago for her return off the freshening. Think she is a cut below to consider on top, but the distance is to her liking and an underneath use.

Came away cleanly, accelerated well and ran out of time to narrowly miss against Ultra Shiny last out going shorter. Defeated two next out winners in lone win at the distance in a trial last year. Race was going shorter last out, but she did show more th an she had in her previous efforts and may be rounding into form. Not without a chance.

Bumped at the start last out, kept to a hand ride and failed to threaten in a stakes race. Ran a strong effort two back from the rail and is in solid form. Is 0 for 7 at the distance, but tends to finish her races well, so the distance is not too much of a concern. Takes on a weaker group compared to her past handful of starts. One to respect -George Duarte

Drew the rail on debut, stumbled sharply at the start, received fairly well, was in contention at the gap and weakened while being put under a hold late. Is quick, but has been facing bottom level claimers. Distance gives him a chance, but prefer others.

Bobbed a bit, but was quick early, put to steady urging and came up second best while finishing ahead of Teller Army Mrl. Is better suited going this distance and a strong gate rider takes the call. Light on class, compared to the top contenders, but on e to consider underneath.

- Lost all chance at the start when stumbling sharply when last seen. Quick runner makes sophomore debut tonight and worked on May 27th, came away well, was not asked for much and finished under a hold in a sharp drill. Looks as good as ever in that work and takes on a soft group. Draws very well and is the one to beat.

CLOSER LOOK: Came away cleanly last out, drifted out early and kept to steady urging to inch away into a 9.82 final eighth. The fourth place finisher came back to win a trial. Has the fastest clocking at the distance in the field. Does have to overcome the rail draw, but rider has had plenty of success from this post.

Came away cleanly last out, had a wide path, kept to steady urging early and proved best going shorter. That race was the fastest of five at the distance on the night. Has been supplemented into this race and the added distance is definitely a concern. I mproved nicely in that second start, but prefer her rivals that have experience at the distance.

Was a stewards scratch from a Ed Burke Million trial last week. Came away well enough, was up close early, kept to steady urging and shied from a lugging in rival midway to finish under a hold. The winner is 3 for 3 and adds blinkers tonight on the ship in. Prefer to watch one under the lights.

Added the blinkers for start number two, bumped into a rival at the start, accelerated to get the lead, kept to steady urging and inched away in a slow clocking. Is the third runner to win their next outing in a productive debut field. Clocking was slow, but she had plenty of trouble to overcome to forgive the clocking. Takes a big step up in class, but is not without a chance.

Faced a compact field on debut, broke out at the start, kept to steady urging and edged away in a solid debut. Second place finisher ran sixth in a trial, third place finisher came back to run fifth in a maiden claimer. Very light on experience with the lone work and race, but takes on a way tougher group and now draws in between runners. Plenty talented, but experience may be his downfall.

- Came away cleanly last out, responded very well to urging early and powered away in a convincing win. The third place finisher came back to run fourth in a trial. Strided out very well in that effort and barn has been improving their juvenile runners nicely this season. One to consider.

Lifted a bit at the start, was fortunate to keep her path, accelerated well under urging and was kept to a hand ride late to prevail. The second place finisher came back to run second and a couple others came back to run fourth. Well bred runner has loads of upside and had plenty left in the tank on debut. Draws well for start number two and any improvement makes this one a top contender. Have to respect.

- Competed in the Kindergarten Futurity last out, missed the break, shifted in early and lost her action and was walked to the wire. The winner came back to qualify to the Ed Burke Million and the third place finisher came back to run a troubled third in her trial. Returns quickly so can just chalk up the last race as just bad luck. Finished nicely in her trial from this post draw and a repeat effort puts her in the mix. -George Duarte
