CLOSER LOOK: Toss that G2 Pegasus World Cup F&M Turf at GP Jan. 24 and you're left with 4 good races; maybe the Pegasus cast was too tough, or maybe it was just one of those days; the good news is after that she came back with 2 sharp efforts; surely the trip is no b other and she was strong in 2 prior tries over this inner course; surely nice to see Johnny V. stay.

Didn't just win easily in her U.S. debut at AQU April 28, she won in a romp; that was also her first start in 18 months so she's certainly eligible to do even better; showed quite the burst late and while it's a new, longer trip the way she handled a mile hints she'll handles today's added half-furlong no problem; that being said, the Beyer from that April 18 win didn't exactly get the pulse racing and needs a big boost vs. these, but that's not out of reach; Brown has won this 8 times, the last 4 in a row.

Quality proven with a win in the G1 Matriarch out West last fall, and then a win in the G1 Jenny Wiley (in a DH) off a layoff since at KEE; obviously has the goods and Prat was up for those 2 wins (and a sharp 2nd in her prior start) and stays; has enough tactical speed she can get a nice stalking tip and keep the leaders in her sights; only 6th in this last year but she's certainly better now than she was then; Brown has won this 8 times, the last 4 in a row.

Scary new face; ran into some very, very tough gals in France last year including Gezora, a G1 SW in France 11 months ago who later won the G1 BC F&M Turf last fall; dull in a French G1 last Aug. 3 and then gone nearly 9 months but she came back sharp April 23 with a game win showing no signs of rust from the layoff; it's most encouraging they opt to ship across the Atlantic for this; hey, they're not here for the scenery; but it's no small task to travel halfway around the world, deal with new surroundings and some top-class foers.

Gamedly led all the way to win a stakes on AQU turf April 17 so she comes here doing well; sure, these are tougher than she's used to facing but she's trending the right way, has a tactical speed edger over many of these and, as noted, comes here on the rise; and if she's outrun early that's no bother as she's won from off the pace before so she's got the versatility to give her rider options.

A smart G3 SW at AQU Nov. 23; got the winter off and came back in the G1 Jeny Wily at KEE April 11 and while only able to run 6th it's not as if she was beaten that far; can benefit from that outing and it's nice to see no subsequent drop or layoff; re united with Davis who was up for her big maiden win at BAQ last Sept.; that said, she still likely needs to produce a run she hasn't produced yet to beat these.

Finished behind Segesta, who might go favored here, in 2 of her last 3, though she wasn't THAT far behind her; in her defense, too, her 4th in KEE G1 last fall when just behind Segesta (2nd) was super and her 8th behind Segesta (2nd) in a G1 at KEE April 11 came after 5 months off; there's no layoff this time, her only prior start on this inner course resulted in a SW and she's reunited with Ortiz who was up for her that aforementioned SW on this course last summer and a win on the outer course here the prior summer. -Michael Hammersly

Big rally got him a G2 SW in Saudi Arabia a few months ago; got time off after that, came back in a brutal G1 at CD on the Ky. Derby undercard and loomed a big threat into the lane but died on his run; this spot might not be as tough and there's no layoff f; no surprise he's been good; after all, he cost $1,050 million so there were expectations from the start; that said, his only prior local try wasn't too hot, though you can make a case he's much better now than he was then; Baffert won this with Woke U p Dreamin in 2005 and Fast Bullet in 2013.

While he won the G1 BC Sprint at DMR last fall he ran just 2 times in 2025 so that wasn't enough to get him the hardware as top male sprinter; still, there's no doubt he's near the top of the male food chain; after that got time off, resurfaced in Dubai in a G1 and was a sharp 2nd; given time since and that Dubai run hints he's as good as ever; speed to be in it from the start and while it's his first time here he's handled GP dirt, Saudi dirt, CT dirt, PRX dirt, DMR dirt, CD dirt and Dubai dirt so odds are he'll handles this place.

Invades from SoCal off plenty of good work; that includes a 2nd in the Palos Verdes and 2nd in the G3 San Carlos so he's got quality; that said, his top Beyer of 93 leaves him a ways behind the top players here and now he's asked to deal with new surround dings and foes likely tougher than he's been facing in SoCal; has tactical speed and some versatility and worked sharply since; still likely needs to run a race he hasn't run yet to be a player.

You don't have to sell your soul to land here as this guy comes in peak form including a near-miss 3rd in a G3 at LRL Preakness weekend; nice as that was, from a Beyer standpoint it still leaves him a ways behind the top players here and the type of run it will likely take to be a major player; at least has tactical speed and it's encouraging Asmussen feels good enough about him to toss him into these deeper waters; Asmussen won this in 2022 with Jackie's Warrior and 2006 with Anew.

Your defending champ and reigning sprint champ, and that was earned on the basis of more super work over this track so he didn't have to go do SoCal for the G1 BC Sprint; return in the G2 Carter at AQU April 4 was smart as he stalked and ran on well for 2nd, only to come up a tad short but no shame in that loss considering he ran well; can benefit from that run and surely from the return to this track which he loves; should be in line for another dream trip stalking the pace and a bullet work since his last say he's doing well

Cost $500K so there were once big expectations; it's taken a while but those last 2 big wins hint he's getting things figured out and is ready to deliver on the price tag; has enough tactical speed to get a stalking trip and note 2 bit wins over this track so he likes it here; 2 prior stakes tries weren't much but he looks like a much better horse now than he was then; Pletcher won this in 2015 with Rock Fall, 2012 with Caixa Eletronica, 2010 with Briton and 2004 with Speightstown.

Multiple graded stakes winner earned both of his graded stakes victories on dirt, and although his turf form hasn't been bad, he has just one win from eight turf starts; veteran shows up for a barn and rider that have teamed to win with 29 of 113 (26%) s starters in 2026, and the runner-up finisher from his latest race returned to win next out at AQU on 5/9 going 6f in a G3 with a 90 Beyer; obviously his chances get upgraded in the event that this race has to be moved to the main track.

He earned a G3 win going a mile over turf as a two-year-old, and his form has improved since giving the turf-sprint game a try, but this race to be considered an extremely tough assignment for his first crack at a G1; don't like to count this barn out of it with a turf sprinter, but he looks like more of an outsider.

He hasn't run a bad race to date, and it really is amazing how well he's performed since being returned from a 22-month layoff two starts ago; can't knock the form that is on display here, but have to acknowledge the major class test he's facing while making his graded stakes debut in an extremely tough G1 event.

He's one of three impressive New York-bred horses lined up in this field, and have to acknowledge the work that he's done from seven starts over the Saratoga turf, especially his two starts here last year when earning back-to-back triple-digit Beyer Speed Figures; he had an ideal prep for this while making his first start of the year last month, and if the early pace in here is hotly contested, he'll be looking to run them down in deep stretch.

Grade 2 winner is in career best form entering this contest, and he's one of four $1 million earners to look at in this event; he finished right behind one of today's key rivals in Litigation in his latest start, and he might benefit with a move to an outside post as he did have a little traffic trouble racing toward the inside that day; he was second in this event last year, and going to look for him to prove to be a major player once again. -Brian Pochman

CLOSER LOOK: This might be among the better betting races you'll find; rail runner is a promising youngster who makes 2nd start vs. winners following a strong win after the KY Derby at CD; speed figs. were really askew relative to prior starts by those in R13 on 5/2 and just a single entrant has returned since, at a mile, with a much worse effort; inclined to feel that this one is so lightly-raced that he could easily step-up in a big way here but the rail draw will demand some finesse and there isn't much margin for error in what hindsight may ID as a loaded field; definitely including this number on multi-race arrangements.

Second thing to notice about this one is that he's 4-for-5 in dirt sprints while his only loss happened here; fact that he romped in the earlier Gr. III Sanford negates real concerns about the only loss, which happened in an odd race which found the front pair both well out from the rail as they turned for home (with nobody else nearby); with just a single start since Valentine's Day, he's another who could be just about any kind; with SO many high-quality foes in here wanting to race near to the pace, the inside pair may do well for themselves being significantly far back before they come to call near the end of 7 furlongs; runner-up in latest had been undefeated and romped in 3 prior starts, mostly against PA-bred company; would certainly expect a m

Hot Derby pace, then came back and won the Woody Stephens... that was the path of 2012 Champion Sprinter Trinniberg; you need only glance at the KY Derby chart to see that anybody near the pace was greatly compromised with superfecta swept by closers; U AE Derby winner Wonder Dean also ran in the KY Derby and he ran a fairly strong race despite racing wide and being bumped around; fact this guy is now acclimated to the U.S. is a huge factor while the Timeform Ratings he earned in the UAE project him as a prominent candidate in this barnburner of a contest; like the pair of solid works over the track here.

 Heavily backed in both starts this year, this $1.3 Mil. purchase has performed solidly in each; winner of latest is apparently no slouch as he was taking 4th straight with steadily improving figures and was making 3rd start in 2026; so today brings a move up and into graded company and this is NOT going to be the easiest spot in the world; recognize, though, that with just a pair of races since November, this guy has greater improvement trajectory than others with more starts in 2026; don't get too hung-up on either of the two losses since his maiden score; indeed this is a tall ask but it isn't out of the question that you could see him at or near the top in the end.

 Four sprints and four daylight victories while the only pair to top him to date each finished within 5.25 lengths of the winner in the KY Derby; solid speed figures without really being tested in the sprints and strangely enough, the career-best was in the 2-turn affair, hinting that he's got more in the tank if a battle ensues; this is a 3yo with just a single start since February and that gives him license to be a lot better next time under silks; crafty conditioner has tightened the screws rather effectively and runner knows the local layout well; price should be fairly reasonable in a competitive spot and Prat takes the call after having witnessed what this runner is like when tested.

 He was battle tested on 5/2 when stalking and then pouncing on the main foe and runner-up; indeed they were one-two all the way but nobody else was under 10-1 on the board so perhaps no surprise; the foes on 4/4 were an odd collection of OLDER rivals, 4 of which have returned to boost their Beyers by at least 4 points in their next starts; it IS realistic that this Baffert charge leaps into the next stratosphere here and leaves the others gunning for trifecta slices; Baffert is 0-3-2-3 / 14 over 5 year s in 3yo stakes run at Saratoga (ALL Gr 1's) though he won this race at Belmont with Arabian Lion in 2023; he is the one to beat but many of these have the potential to give him a run for the money in a great contest.

 Romping winner of first pair, spaced several months apart, did finally meet his match at the 'Downs on Derby Day; colt garnered plenty of respect both before and after that one and it must be restated that with so few recent preps, he has greater upside potential than some of the others; cutting back a furlong in distance can't hurt him; have to wonder whether this is the nearest thing to a need-the-lead type in here; might not be fully challenged for the front, but with SO many hovering nearby it is certain that another will adjust to the crowd by throwing down the gauntlet; what if this son of Maxfield improved markedly over the March sprint and gains considerably from a shorter trip than in latest?; he could be the future star that is lurking among

Fresh off a maiden win at Kee but the runner-up in that one returned at CD, went off at 1-2, and ran an ordinary 3rd while shaving 14 points off of the 4/12 Beyer; also, about that race, the top trio ran 1-2-3 all the way; like many others here, he may just be springboarding to bigger and better things; colt is licensed to be in the 98 Beyer range by this point in brief career, and he did miss by only a neck to Crude Velocity when perhaps in need of a race; would be nice to see a scientific weighting of how much tote action is appropriate for him vs. how much he'll likely get; lively morning moves out west in preparation for this and regular jock is along for the ride; belongs on the multi-race-exotics blueprint just in case.

Well it's Derby speed vs. Preakness speed in this dash, on Belmont Day even; most noteworthy about this guy is his concerted off-the-pace success in only prior sprint and the idea that such a strategy in here may help him outrun his odds; he ran out of his mind at Laurel but a couple of those behind him that day validated the number - of course things are much easier in life when you're 10 lengths in front on a moderate pace; won't be easy to measure beforehand just where this one fits when superimposed over this group; give him credit for having gone postward as the Preakness favorite but gotta wonder what happens now that the bloom has come off the rose; barn 15-for-last-36 with runners going route-to-sprint on dirt. -George Cottrell

He looked very good in his first start in America in his latest outing when chasing today's rival Rhetorical through the lane while earning a G1 stakes placing, and note the big gap back to third; not that Rhetorical needs the early lead, but the shape of this race could be very different in this event when considering the early speed of Deterministic, and that would benefit his late running style.

Multiple graded stakes winner shows up for a barn that has been winning at a high percentage lately, and it's worth noting how well he performed in this event last year when narrowly defeated by today's rival Deterministic; he is light on recent winning form, but perhaps his latest start can serve as a confidence builder.

He's another multiple G1 winner to look at in this field, and he couldn't have been any sharper in earning his second G1 victory when outrunning today's rival Make Me King on his way to earning a 107 Beyer Speed Figure, and that figure equals the top turf Beyer in America this year with Burnham Square; he owns the ability to adapt to any early pace scenario, and if he comes right back with the same level of performance, there might not be any stopping him.

Ran down the speed in the Peter Pan as the even money choice and hard not to love the improving Beyers as he hasn't done much wrong as a 3-year-old but gets to test the deep waters in this Grade 1; Brown has 3 in here so trying to figure out which one will be the pacesetter is pace presser is the issue but he is a candidate stalking a good pace in his MSW Mile win; Prat went to Emerging Market for this.

3-back represents the field's-best Beyer speed figure; capable on best; was crunched between horses in deep stretch of the Kentucky Derby when he had a relatively good trip before that considering how roughly run that race was; in his Florida wins was a lot closer to the pace; his numbers suggests he is dangerous on his best day; view as a late running exotics possibility.

Considering his running style with mid pack rallies including beating the Kentucky Derby winner in the Louisiana Derby, was shocked he was up-close to that hot pace in last; 1 of 3 from trainer Brown; faded from the scene but expecting a lot better effort especially considering Prat who has wins on 4 of these in the field takes this one; contender.

Since adding blinkers 2 starts ago he has become a new and improved runner; exits a co-best-last-race Beyer when completing a rare feat rallying to win the Kentucky Derby last to 1st; the last runner back to do that in 2009 Mine That Bird was another imp robable Derby longshot winner who went on to finish 3rd in the BEL Stakes; gets the same distance as the Derby but the pace here is the concern because they went fast early in Louisville which set up his late blast; the one to beat. -Art Gropper
